MCH cardiologists on the list include Drs. Patrick J. Cook and Arthur J Springer.

Key Professional Media Inc., a leading researcher and publisher of Super Doctors, asked more than 40,000 physicians to nominate colleagues they would choose in seeking medical care. The Key Professional team then further researched the nominees and evaluated them on key indicators, including peer recognition, professional status and disciplinary history.

Doctors were then grouped into 33 specialties and the physicians with the highest scores were asked to serve on a blue ribbon panel and score the candidates in their specialties. Finally, the doctors with the highest total points from the nominating surveys, the research, and the blue ribbon panel review were named to the list.
